Spider (Animal) Katarzyna Michalska, Sergiusz Michalski

The spider has a rich symbolic presence in the human imagination. Seen as representing death, due to its poisoned fangs and pitiless, predatory nature, the spider can also represent both creativity and creation: it weaves an intricate web and females carry a sac containing thousands of eggs. Spiders of course are also feared and reviled because of their appearance and skittery, spasmodic movements. In this comprehensive study, Katarzyna and Sergiusz Michalski investigate the cultural significance of the spider, as well as presenting the natural history of this fascinating, ancient creature.

Spider analyses the arachnid's appearance in the literature of Dostoyevsky and Hugo, and the many depictions of the spider in art, paying particular attention to the sculptures of Louise Bourgeois. Horror stories, science fiction, folklore and children's tales are reviewed, as well as the affliction of arachnophobia, and the procedures used in curing the condition. The psychological association of the spider with dominant women or mothers is explored, as is the role of the spider metaphor in Freudian and Jungian psychoanalysis. This in-depth account closes with an analysis of the way in which the sinister nature of the spider lends itself to unfavourable portrayal in film.

A thorough, wide-ranging account of the natural and cultural history of the spider, this book will appeal to anybody who admires, or fears, this complex, delicate yet powerful creature.

Ronald Cleary:

As a student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library or make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's soul or real their interest. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and also can't see colorful photos on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Spider (Animal) can make you feel more interested to read.
